

Pet Care NOTES

Presented by Tracy A. Barlup,
VMD
and associates

FACTS TO CONSIDER ABOUT PET HEALTH INSURANCE

Health insurance for your pet can help save you money and give you an increased sense of security about your pet's well-being. Some well-known national animal welfare organizations as well as several companies offer pet health insurance. Before you sign up, consider whether you want comprehensive coverage or discount coverage. Also find out if you are limited in which veterinarian you use and if there is a waiting period before your pet is covered. Be sure to ask what exactly is covered and what is excluded. (For example, are standard well-pet visits included?) Ask about spay and neuter coverage. Will the plan include a deductible, and what about the ever-important prescription coverage?

Don't hesitate to get your pet medical attention when a problem appears or an emergency occurs. Quick action on your part may mean the difference between developing a serious condition and effecting a speedy recovery. In addition to leading edge medical care such as laser surgery, our services include giving you helpful pet care advice, a complete schedule of vaccinations for your pet, nutrition counseling, plus microchipping. Please call us for an appointment or visit our website. We treat all small animals including pocket pets, rabbits, and exotics.

www.longmeadowvet.com

Longmeadow Animal Hospital
19764 Longmeadow Rd., Hagerstown
301-733-8400

10169922